It was the best of times, it was the worst of times, it was the age of wisdom, it was the age of foolishness, it was the epoch of belief, it was the epoch of incredulity, it was the season of light, it was the season of darkness, it was the spring of hope, it was the winter of despair, we had everything before us, we had nothing before us, we were all going direct to Heaven, we were all going direct the other way — in short, the period was so far like the present period, that some of its noisiest authorities insisted on its being received, for good or for evil, in the superlative degree of comparison only.

Charles Dickens could well have been describing this year at Maryvale when he penned these words. Even though students may not consider literature high on their list of priorities, few realize how well it sums up the teen-age years.

It was a hectic, thousand-thing-to-do day, or a slow, never-ending, boring one.
It was the wildest thrill of victory, or the bitterest agony of defeat.
It was the most challenging problem, or the easiest assignment of the year.
It was the most embarrassing of dropped-book moments or the most solemn of graduation-release moments.
It was the best ot times; it was the worst of times.

Hi Larry,
This has been a fun year hasn't it? You've been a real good friend. Except, how could you let me like Chris. Oh well, still love. Have a great summer & see you next year. Love

The 1983 varsity football team, according to the Arizona Republic, was a "Dr. Jekyll and Mr. Hyde" team.

Starting the season against a much larger #1 ranked Moon Valley team, the Panthers were handed a disheartening 36-6 defeat, despite Maryvale's touchdown in the first minute.

Game two brought out the Hyde team, and the helpless Apollo Hawks were shut-out 14-0.

The next Friday found the Panthers in Tempe against the Tempe Buffalos. Led by Clark Osborne and Tony Jones with 115 and 106 yards rushing and Chris Hudak's three touchdowns, the team crushed Tempe with a final score of 49-13.

The Cats faced Tolleson at home on October 1. Touchdowns by Hudak and Osborne finished the Wolverines hopes for victory, 20-16.

Panthers bury Central for homecoming, 41-0

In Casa Grande for the fifth game, Maryvale proved to be an equal opportunity killer. Quarterback Richard Wooten, place kicker Ron Gue, and Receiver Randy Kindred as well as Hudak and Jones scored and wrote Casa Grande's epitaph 27-0.

On Homecoming, the Panthers faced the Central Bobcats and found that the force was with them. The force of Jones, Hudak and Osborne, with one, two and three TD's respectively. Finishing off Central's humiliation was Gue with five points and that was all for the Bobcats, 41-0.

Game 7 was a big one for the Panthers as they played Trevor Browne on the Bruins turf. The Bruins got off to a good start, however and Maryvale was trailing by 17 points at the end of the first half. The third quarter brought Maryvale's only score, a touchdown by Jones. Browne's defense managed to keep Osborne, Hudak and Jones under 40 yards each, a big factor in the game. In the fourth quarter the Panthers were fighting a losing battle. Trevor scored another TD, added an extra point and when time ran out, the score was Trevor Browne 24, Maryvale 6.

Mr. Hyde was back when Maryvale met Alhambra and it showed. Number 11, Randy Kindred, went in for a touchdown late in the first quarter. Combined with a 2 point conversion the Panthers jumped out to an 8-0 lead. In the fourth quarter, quarterback Wooten connected with Osborne to put in the Panthers last six points and put the Lions in their place, 14-6.

The ninth game of the season brought the Panthers and Camelback Spartans together. Hanging in the balance was a play-off berth for Maryvale. But a fired-up Spartan team rained on the MHS parade with the final score 24-7.

Given one more chance by a twist of events, the Panthers had to beat South Mountain in their final game and the Alhambra Lions would have to defeat the Camelback Spartans to force a three-way tie.

Friday was a big evening for high school students around the Valley. The Panthers pulled off their job, defeating the Rebels 38-2. However, a late score kept many Panther fans from finding out the outcome of the Alhambra-Camelback game until Saturday. The Lions had won and the tie-breaker was on.

On a cold, damp night at Central's Bobcat Stadium, Maryvale, Alhambra, and Camelback were ready to see who went to the play-offs. In the first game, Maryvale's Hyde team simply obliterated Alhambra's defense for 9 points in the first quarter and 10 points in the second. The Lion's season ended abruptly on November 15 under a 19-0 Panther victory. The Spartans were next, but fared no better. Their season also ended that night as they were also finished by a Maryvale 20, Camelback 0, score.

An elated Maryvale cheered its team to Phoenix College's Hoy Field on November 19. The Panthers were facing their biggest game, and one of their toughest opponents, the Agua Fria Owls.

The first quarter was a grim contest and neither the Panthers nor the Owls could move the ball into the end-zone. Maryvale exploded in the second quarter, however and punished Agua Fria's defense with 13 points to the Owl's 0. When the teams came back from the locker rooms, Agua Fria was out to win, delivering a 7-point blow to the Panthers. The fourth quarter was a heart stopper, with both teams scoring, in turn. But when the smoke cleared, Maryvale was the only team standing. Maryvale was going to the semi-finals and Agua Fria was going home with a losing 27-21 score.

With a new hope, Maryvale was ready to again face the Moon Valley Rockets. This time the Panthers thought they could win. At Glendale Community College, the Panthers hoped to win a shot at the state AAA title. Maryvale started big with a TD in the first quarter, but couldn't stop the Rockets offense, or get around their defense. The Panther scoring was over with 7 points and Moon Valley went on to beat Trevor Browne for the state championship because of their 35-7 victory at GCC. The Panthers ended their season with a 11-4 record, a championship title for the Metro Division and hopes for next year.

Juniors, Frosh form nucleus of golf varsity

With freshmen, including Tammy Faherty, the first girl to try to break into the all-male ranks of golf, vying for two positions on the team, Coach Jerry Hicks faced the bleakest season in Maryvale history. There were no seniors and only three juniors on the team.

That the team wound up with a winning season and a fifth place finish in division was a minor miracle. Much of the credit goes to the improved play of junior Bruce Ostrander who started the year shooting in the 50's and shooting in the 30's in three of his last four matches.

Three juniors led the Panther golf team this year. They are Dwane Traynor (Right and top left), Bruce Ostrander (center and top right) and Woody Weber (far right). The Maryvale Boys'/Girls' Cross Country Team had an overwhelming 1982 season with the boys winning six of eight dual meets while the girls came out with an undefeated season of eight wins, four of which were by forfeit.

The Panthers had an excellent turn out at the Metro Division Meet in which sixteen schools competed. The girls made an outstanding effort in becoming the Metro Division Champions while the boys settled with a fifth place standing. Susie Roer was first and Charlene Fiedler was fifth of the 46 runners that competed in the girls' division.

The State Meet of 56 Class AAA schools meant twelfth place for the girls and twentieth place for the boys.

Two-year letter awards went to Tim Blau, Lonnie Hatfield, Garrett Honahnie, and John Quijano on the boys' team and Susie Roer and Charlene Fiedler on the girls' team.

Spikes, setups lead volleyers to 16-4 season

The Varsity Volleyball team capped an excellent season by winning the division championship for the fourth straight year.

Coached by Jim Irvine, they compiled a 16-4 record, won the Greenway tournament and beat a tough Camelback team for the division: 12-15, 15-5, 15-5.

In the first round of the state tournament, the girls defeated Cortez, 11-15, 15-2 and 15-8, but their luck ran out against Rincon in the semi-finals 11-15 and 14-16.

Carolyn Coulter and Kathy Youngberg both made the All-State first team while Carolyn and Sarag Endres made All-division.

Graduation hits cagers; hustle, spirit remains

Led by Coach Rob Babcock, the Varsity Basketball team rebounded and shot their way through a tough rebounding year which saw only two varsity players return from last year's team.

The inexperienced Panthers struggled through one and two point heart-breakers and not a few 30-point blowouts. The team won enough games along the way to remain respectable including two games against arch-rival Trevor Browne.

The team used speed and agility to keep the crowds excited, but it usually was a case of too little against the taller, stronger teams.

Student government tries to promote Panther spirit

Student Government gave us the best of the worst of times. They tried to promote school spirit by lunch time activities, pep assemblies, and well planned events such as the 1982 Homecoming, Almost Anything Goes, and the Celebration of Maryvale's twentieth birthday. Student Government also held the elections for Panther Sweetheart and Beau, and King and Queen of Homecoming, and Christmas.

The Frosh President was elected in early September and happened to be the sister of President Pete Torsiello of Student Government. Vice-President Riki-Jo Redfern presided over ASC, alias Senate of the school. Lonnie Hatfield was Student body treasurer. Secretaries Tami Amador and Frank Gomez kept correspondence and records straight. Shauna Colladay was on the citizens advisory council and Mara Jacobsen and Holly Martinell were on the board of education. Shevene Butler, Henry Lam, and Chris Trotter were class clowns or presidents.

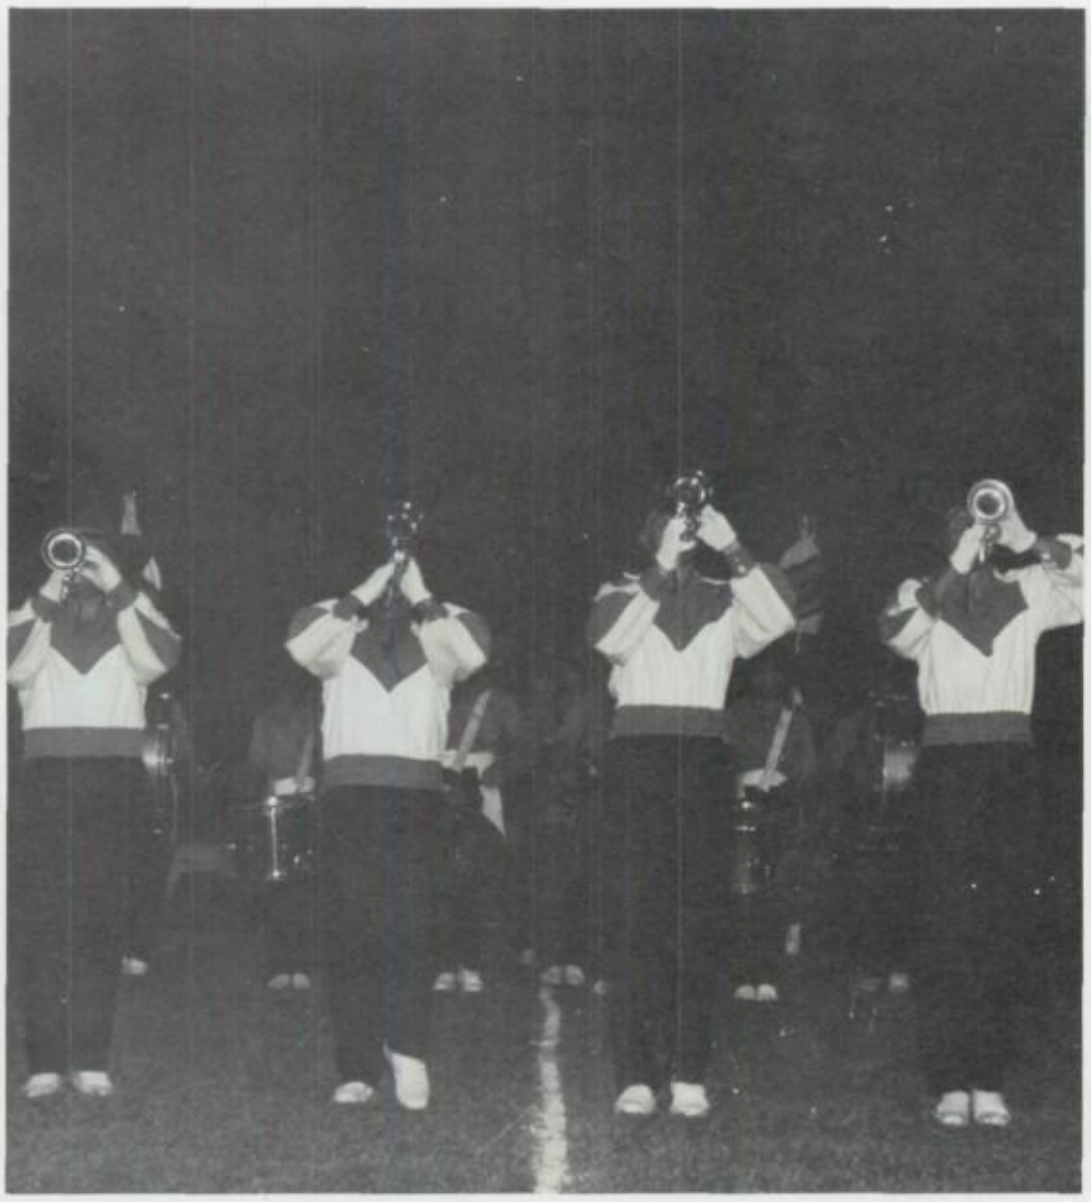
Marching could be difficult work as Karlan Judd, James Hockenhull and Susan Murphy (right) found out. Football Games were the high point of the marching week for the trumpet sections (right center) and Ruben Rabago and Kristen Scott (far right). Drum Major Greg Quiros, (far lower right) however, spent the whole season worrying about his salute.



Band takes excellent rate at competition

The Panther Band, for the fifth consecutive year, has gotten a new director. Mr. Tom Battista became the eighth person to fill the director's chair when he was transferred from East after its closure last June. This year's marching band, under Drum Major Greg Quitros, went to both ASU and U of A band days as well as the Veteran's Day Parade where they were honored as the best marching band.

Dancers, Flags, mascot performances entertain

The Flag Line, an essential part of the marching band in recent years, again improved the looks of the band one hundred per cent. Their black and gold banners and uniforms signaled the band performances at halftime shows and during parades.

Coordinated by Band Director Tom Battista, the choreography of the line for halftime shows was spectacular.

Choreography was also spectacular in performances by the modern dance group. In assemblies and concerts, Blanche Berry's group performed original dances by members of the group.

A wee girl donned the hot panther playsuit and aided cheerleaders and fans by acting the part of the mascot. Lori Benjamin, a sophomore, served in this role.

Cheers raise school spirit to new highs

The 1983 cheer line did just that for Maryvale again this year. Appearing at Football and Basketball games as well as assemblies, the cheers provided a constant source of spirit for sometimes low team members and fans alike. The Cheers were always there at the right time to congratulate when we won, or to console when we lost. Under the leadership of Mrs. Ginny Rote and Captain Kim Harold, the cheers proved to be one of the most constructively loud groups on campus.

Whether at the games or at pep assemblies, the cheers worked hard and long to make the year one to be remembered.

Fans were always delighted when the Panthers scored a touchdown, mainly because they needed them, but also because that's when the Poms did their stuff to the tune of "Panther Growl".

Precision dancing was the Poms "stuff" and this years group was particularly precise and pretty.

Under the leadership of Miss Blanche Berry, the Poms were on hand to perform at varsity football and basketball games, but at pep assemblies where they were also prominent in the skits.

The Poms have been a part of the Maryvale spirit team since the beginning.

Pom routines are an integral part of pep assemblies. In the gym, Danielle Cullinan (lower left) steps high and Shannon Ball and Lucce DePalo (top center) kneel while on the field. Lucce DePalo (lower center) cuts a caper and Amy Lee, Vicki Fox, and Theresa Parrinello, (lower right) fly like birds. But they look pretty even when they are not participating as Danielle Cullinan (upper right) proves just by sitting. Staff succeeds in battle to keep 'Tracks' secret

Contrary to popular belief there is a school newspaper. But because of their undying modesty and devotion to the school, the staff tried to keep it a secret. Co-editors Rochelle Anderson and Ann Brown were first and foremost in the fight to keep Panther Tracks from being known by keeping the number of papers as low as possible. Assisting the Editors in their relentless pursuit of anonymity were assorted reporters, photographers, and lackies. Returning staffer Steve Matherly turned from staff stud to staff surfer-punk. Steve's vacated job was filled by Chris Fiscus. Chris spent the entire year trying to get someone in the darkroom. But somehow, nothing ever developed for Chris. Except maybe a slight concussion from Patti Leggin's incredible Purse II, delivered right after one of Chris's frequent invitations to the darkroom.

Another returning staffer, Tom Leggin, was cloned to make two Tom's to write for the newspaper. The second Tom was christened Nemmer and spent most of his time discussing bio-rhythms charted by Suzi Woods' amazing calculator.

A freshman, Steve Ramsey, became business manager, (Along with Suzi and her calculator), but accidently contaminated another reporter, Mike Wilkens, with a radioactive ad from Palo Verde. Our Token Southerness, Tammy Gard, was entertained through the year by the amazing stories of E. C. Curry and his shadow, Collis Newbill.

Editor battles strange staff's deadline apathy

Holding true to its heritage, the yearbook staff did nothing worth talking about. Unless, of course, you talk about the lack of organization and planning. Then you could make a 12 hours mini-series. Laziness would also prove to be an easy topic for a talk show concerning yearbook.

Editor Randy Leighty tried desperately to meet deadlines but gave up when Assistant Editor Patti Leggin got tired of doing a duet on yearbook work and suppressed him repeatedly with the mere mention of the letter "C."

Photography Editor Brent Finley, completing a two year tenure of duty, could be credited with work and a new McLanguage or two. However, unexplained periods of prolonged absence and mysterious old bus ticket stubs to Pomona, California made that questionable.

New additions to the staff included a freshman Suzi Woods, a Bourgade reject Gigi Holtz, an aspiring driver David Mastrangelo, two Siamese twins Bonnie Grace and Tami Schmidt, a silent movie star Tammy Scott and a closet schizophrenic, Arnold Iverson. Many of these people helped Mr. Stinson complete the faculty section in mid-June.

Other Senior staff members numbered either 4 or 5. Three year sleepwalking Tom Leggin, Hollywood Producer Jamie "Spielberg" Neese and granular Ernest "E. C." Curry. The other two (or one) were named Karen "30 pictures a day" White and Greg "I'm sorry, Mr. Stinson" Maynor. They never got far enough apart to tell whether or not they were one person. Photographer Brad Frost was technically a senior but the staff just considered he and Animal "rubber-room material." For this reason they were cast in Genai Set's sit-com, "Genai and her sister's ghost, also starring Rm. 408's own possessed drier.

Deadlines were the first thing that the yearbook staff learned about and the main thing learned was that they were tiring. Editor Randy Leighty's biggest job was keeping people awake at all hours. He was usually marking things down on his master chart (lower center) or comforting photo editor Brent Finley (top right) who needed it because of photographer Greg Maynor (center right). Assistant editor Patti Leggin who typed and punched (lower left) and organizations editor Karen White (top center) who bit her tongue a lot also spent a lot of time in the pubs room. Cheerleaders, scorers boost wrestling teams

What cheerleaders were to other sports, the Wrestlerettes were to the wrestling team and more.

Not only did they cheer their favorites on, they helped with scoring and other chores associated and unique to wrestling matches.

They attended the wrestlerette clinic October 23 and the Peoria and Mclintock Invitational Tournaments as well as the home and away dual matches.

Actors choir perform, plays concerts, mime

Living by their motto "Act well thy part, there all the honor lies," the International Thespians #480 staged three productions this past school year. First was "Our Town" with Mike Boldt, Kiami Rogers, and Jon Jackson portraying the lead characters. Following this was the Christmas Pantomime show, and the spring production of "Fiddler on the Roof." Will Barefield was president of the club of approximately 45 members. The new club sponsor this year was Dixie Patterson.

The concert choir, under the direction of Charlotte Edgar, performed all over town with concerts especially selected for junior high schools. These concerts pushed recruiting for the musical group. In addition, the choir presented numbers at both the Christmas concert and assembly. Selected members also performed for the faculty at their annual Christmas party.

They also had dreams of attending the real United Nations but plans fell through when the group failed to raise the necessary money to pay for the trip. They did, however, attend regional meetings to discuss strategy with other nations with which they were aligned.

The Camera Club made several field trips during the year: to the Northlight Gallery to observe how the masters do it, to a Camera Show to salivate over the equipment available and to the zoo and airport to do some shooting on their own.

The Art Council apparently had one objective as all councils before them: to beautify Maryvale. This years work was on sports murals for the gym. The actual work was done on panels in the art rooms and then transferred to the walls of the gym.

Foreign language clubs absorb exotic cultures

Three clubs on campus were based on interest in the foreign languages taught on campus: Spanish, French and German clubs.

George Emmons' Spanish Club has been active for many years. Among their activities are eating out at Mexican food restaurants, attending Spanish movies and entertaining at the Foreign Language Fair at Grand Canyon College. John Castle was president.

Pete Navarrete's French Club made several lunch and dinner trips, to sample French cuisine while Johanna Haver's German Club attended the Ocktoberfest, German movies and a German convention in the spring.

Students seek heritage through group activity

Three clubs found their roots in ethnic backgrounds: The Black Student Union (BSU), Movimento Estudiantil Chica no de Aztlan (MECHA), and the Indian Club.

The Black Student Union heard talks by local businessmen, studied black history and got involved in helping the poor.

MECHA sold Mexican food at the Birthday Carnival, studied Hispanic culture and generally tried to raise pride in their backgrounds.

The Indian Club made field trips, including one to San Diego, made arts and crafts, learned to bead and dance as well as studied the old traditions.

Brains, cowboys skillful at computing, competing

"You blew it; checkmate." These words may have startled a few people in the hall outside room 254 as Coach Tom Messner's Chess Team tried each other's skills.

The team, much as their brawnier counterparts, competed in tournaments and dual matches both in Varsity and JV levels. Will Barefield was president.

Meanwhile, back in room 913 members of the Computer Club were making weird noises. A quotation would appear here but no one on staff could translate FORTRAN.

A third special interest group was Rodeo Club and Team whose members competed in rodeo events around the valley. When they were not competing, they listened to talks by expert bronc riders and ropers. Ralph Neighbors and Lee Miller sponsored the group.

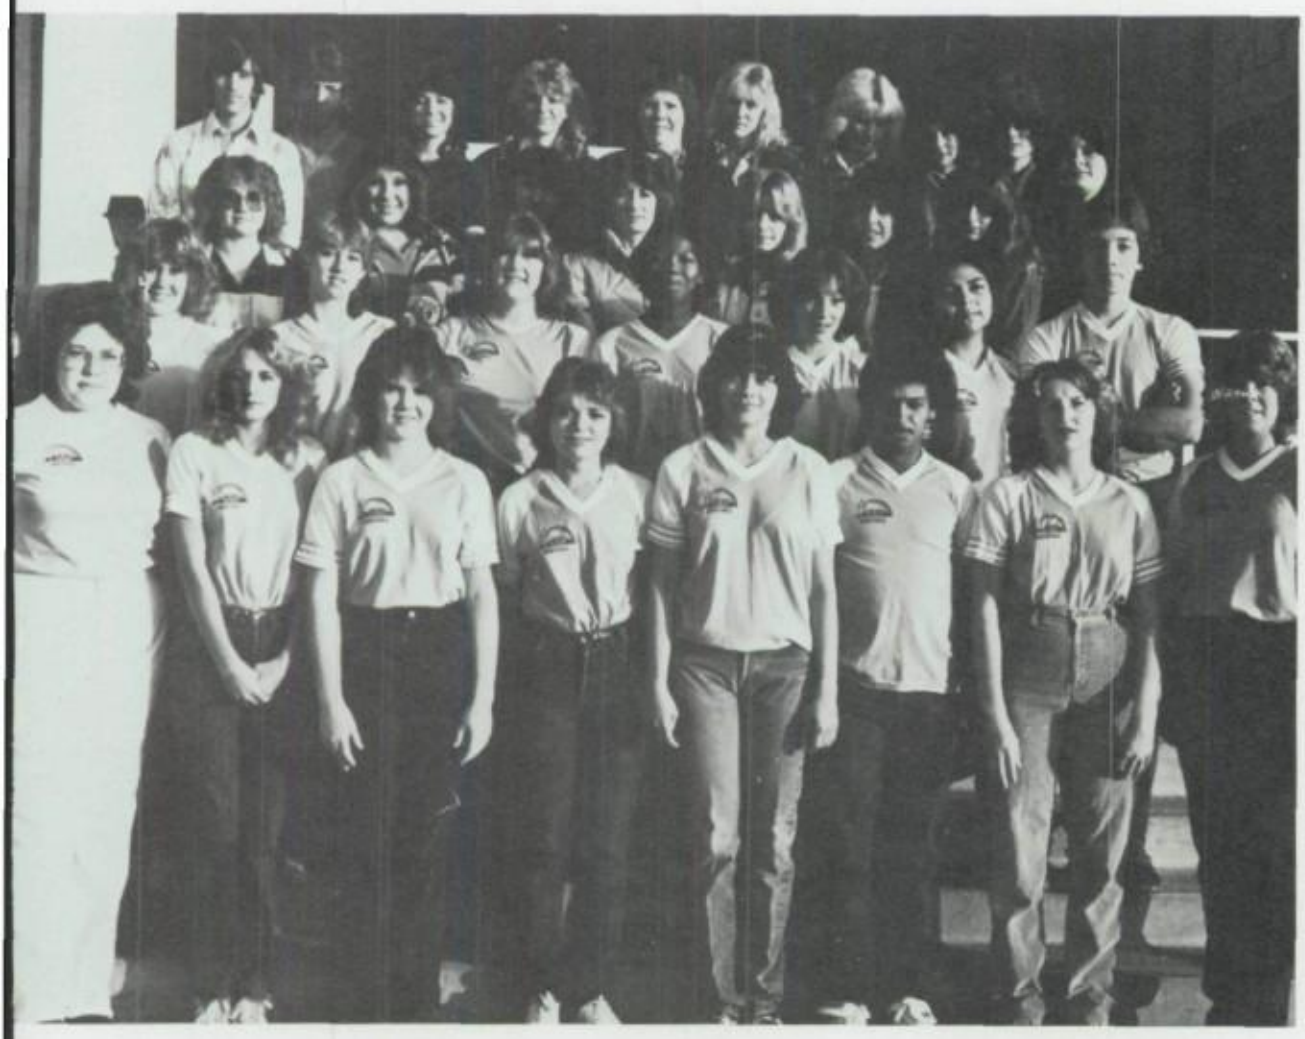
DISTRIBUTIVE EDUCATION



Working clubs bases formed in curriculum

While most clubs on campus catered to special interest groups, four were extracurricular arms of curricular programs. They were DECA, VICA, HERO, and COE.

DECA, which stands for Distributive Education Clubs of America, is the club for students in distributive education classes. Students in this class cooperate between the classroom and jobs in the field of retail sales.

VICA, Vocational Industrial Clubs of America, was made up of students in Industrial Cooperative Education where students split their time between school and jobs at machine shops, garages, and related businesses.

HERO, Home Economics Related Occupations, was the club branch of the class by the same name. These students worked in food preparation and other service industries.

COE, Cooperative Office Education, placed students in offices in all parts of the city. They served as file clerks, secretaries and typists.

ROTC rates high honors at inspection

For the third year in a row, Maryvale's 6th JROTC battalion dominated Phoenix Union High District battalion with exceptional ratings at the AFI. But not only did they earn local recognition, but they also won national acclaim when they won first place honors in the South West Region. These ratings were then compared nationally and Maryvale's cadets, under Major Joe Carter and Cadet Battalion Commander David Russell, were tied for first place in the country. The "Can-Do" battalion's, Drill and Rifle teams also received commendable scores at local competitions.

Maintain MHS, says Goodwin

"My main goal for the year is to maintain Maryvale as an outstanding school," said Mr. Wellesley C. Goodwin as he became the fourth principal in Maryvale History.

Mr. Goodwin was transferred from Alhambra as a result of the changes made at West High School that sent Mr. Bob Dye to Alhambra.

He replaced Mr. George Miller who retired at the end of last year after three years in the position.

Mr. Goodwin could often be seen walking through the halls talking to students in an effort to learn more about their habits and patterns.

"I find it easy to get along with kids," he said, "I have four of my own."

When he wasn't working, Mr. Goodwin enjoyed camping, running, reading, travel and working with his hands.

In his second year at Maryvale, Assistant Principal Howard Shumate had his hands full even though his office had nearly learned how to tame the cranky computer that had taken over attendance the year before.

"Attendance is one of the biggest problems we have at Maryvale," he said.

An innovation that started at Maryvale was computer phone calls to parents when students missed school.

"It is humanly impossible for people to make as many calls as the computer does . . . Although there have been some mistakes, the computerized calling has worked quite well," he said.

After several absences though, Dr. Shumate called parents in to his office to work out the students' problems.

Smith joins administrative staff

The changes made at West High School were responsible not only for Maryvale's new principal, but also an assistant principal who was transferred directly from West. He was Mr. Wendall Smith.

Mr. Smith is a veteran of the Phoenix Union High School District. He was an agriculture teacher and administrator at Phoenix Union High School for 15 years before being transferred to West in 1967.

A graduate of the University of Minnesota, Mr. Smith's duties included coordinating the activities calendar and discipline.

Even though the move did not come as a shock to him, Maryvale's size was much different for him.

"I like to get to know people by name. It's just harder with this many kids," he said.

Mr. Smith replaced Mrs. Dorann Thoreen who returned to the English classroom after three years as assistant principal.

"She was a tough act to follow," said Mr. Smith.

In three short years, Mr. Martin Ulloa has become the senior administrator at Maryvale.

Mr. Ulloa, who came to Maryvale from South Mountain High School, serves as Maryvale's athletic director as well as working on discipline problems.

He is responsible for coordinating sports tournaments and matches on campus. He also must keep an eye on eligibility of athletes as varied as football and badminton.

Mr. Ulloa handles discipline in a fair but firm manner and is known for his sense of humor.

Whether met on a formal or informal basis, Assistant Principals Wendall Smith and Martin Ulloa treated students with dignity and friendliness.

District woes effect changes in curriculum

The Maryvale faculty, like all the faculties in the Phoenix Union High School District, was affected by decisions and events away from its influence and environs.

The closures of East and Phoenix Union forced changes throughout the district. Most directly, the changes made at West High School freed Mr. Bob Dye to become the principal of Alhambra and the transfer of Mr. Wellesley Goodwin from Alhambra to Maryvale. Also, Mr. Wendall Smith, an administrative assistant, was transferred directly from West to replace Mrs. Dorann Thoreen who returned to the English classroom.

Even though the closures of other schools brought some new faces to Maryvale, overall membership declined slightly with a beginning enrollment just under 3000 students.

To serve these students, many changes within each department were effected, although much of what was done had been done in the past. For instance, Mrs. Jane Moser replaced Mrs. Elizabeth Meinecke as the Art Department Chairman and Mr. George Rielly replaced Mrs. Katherine Cimarello during first semester maternity leave, but the rest of the department went on much the same with Mrs. Betty Braig presenting at several art shows as well as teaching her classes how she does it and Mr. Richard Shillings ceramics class holding a spectacular pot sale, while Mrs. Meinecke saw quite a bit of growth in her photography classes.

Wilhoit named chairman as Saban retires

The 300 building nearly collapsed when long-time business Department Chairman Bill Saban retired from the chairmanship. Many think it will collapse when he retires from teaching. Mr. Jimmy Wilhoit replaced Mr. Saban. They and the other teachers: Mr. Charles Banks, Mr. Duane Chalesworth, Miss Harriett Frires, Mrs. Danitza Kalas, Mr. Nestore Bartholmew offered a variety of courses from business machines to business law. Mrs. Freida Cooper and Mr. Bob Yordani coordinated the two work-study classes. Cooperative Office Education Students trained on the job in offices while students in Distributive Education worked in retail outlets.

In the largest department in school, English, two new faces, Mrs. Barbara Schwerdtfeger and Mrs. Carolyn Talley, helped as the staff struggled to get freshmen and sophomores through their district-mandated basic writing skills which included everything from handwriting to a research paper. The more exotic courses in the department included Mr. Jim Clay's College Survival, and Mrs. Chris Connard's Video Productions. Mrs. Dorothy Thomas chairs the department. Mrs. Linda Parker replaced Mrs. Gwen Earl during a first semester leave of absence.

Haver teaches German, leads student rulers

Few people understand what is going on in that one section of the 300 building where the foreign language department chairman, Mr. Pete Navarrete, and teachers: Mr. George Emmons, Mrs. Ida Sagarino and Mrs. Johanna Haver lead their students through the inticacies of conjugating verbs in French, Spanish and German. Besides teaching German, Mrs. Haver also sponsored Student Government.

The Industrial Arts Department is one of the more stable departments in the school with each of its teachers working in his specialty. Chairman John Rebb teaches metal shop: Mr. Greg Whitney woodworking; Mr. Ken Shuck, drafting: Mr. Thomas Johnson, electronics, Mr. George Steinberger, auto mechanics; and Mr. Larry Yule heads the workstudy class Industrial Cooperative Education.

Mrs. Janet Sizemore joined the mathematics Department faculty this year as the staff led students through basic skills as well as such mathematical problems as Calculus and Introduction to Analyses. Mr. Albert Satina of the Performing Arts department taught two classes of General Math. Mrs. Bonnie Tryon is Math Department Chairman.

Speaking of Performing Arts, Mrs. Charlotte Edgar replaced Mrs. Rosemary Williams, who transferred to Central, as department chairman. Miss Dixie Patterson from East High School took over Mrs. Williams drama classes. Mr. Tom Battista became the sixth band director at Maryvale in five years. Mrs. Donna Fessler joined Miss Blanche Berry in teaching dance.

Watkins leads district fight against drugs

While the Physical Education Department was crippled by the retirement of Mr. Gerald Jones, they managed to get through the year under the leadership of Mr. Gil Trejo. Mr. James Irvine took over Mr. Jones' classroom duties. In addition to her teaching duties, Miss Cheryl Watkins coordinated an effort to stem the tide of chemical dependency. She set up a pilot program at Maryvale to instruct teachers how to recognize and combat the problem. A referral system was also set up and implemented with the end of helping students whose lives were touched by the problem of chemical dependence.

Change was probably felt deepest in the Reading Department where the slightest change was the chairman's change of name: from Vanessa Ketchum to Vanessa Dehne. Mrs. Sue Stanford returned after a year's leave of absence and two new teachers, Mrs. Joan Monihan and Mrs. Bertha Flood, helped students pass their basic reading skills and to speed up in order to get better grades.

Although all the faces were familiar, the Science Department still changed a little as Coach Ralph Neighbors who had previously been in P.E. became a full-time biology and general science instructor. If Nr. Meighbors became full-time, many of the scientists were sharing their time. Mrs. Barbara Stephens, chemistry, and Mr. Harmon Unkrich, physics, also taught math and Mrs. Dorothy Coit taught home economics. Mr. Ray White, earth science teacher, decided to teach only the first three hours. Mrs. Mary Lou Allembert, biology, broke her hip in an after-school accident during first semester and was not expected to return.

Jones travels to Carl Hayden for last class

The calm and staid Social Studies Department stayed staid. The only change of any moment was the transfer of Mr. Arbia Jones to Carl Hayden High School for the last two periods of the day. This change was made after the first term. Mr. Bob White is the department chairman.

The ROTC Department was not satisfied to rest on its laurels. Led by Major Joseph Carter, the Maryvale ROTC has become one of the finest units in the country as rated by their annual inspections. Sergeants Nick Mastrovito and Ronald Ratliff were the other instructors who have helped build the program at Maryvale.

Miss Linda Grayhack became chairman of the Exceptional Student Department this year replacing Mrs. Joyce Werner. This department gave special help to students with problems and handicaps. Mrs. Lois Ostraat returned to Maryvale after several years absence to be psychologist with the department.

New teacher helps students design jeans

The Home Economics Department welcomed Mrs. Marilyn Lavine who transferred from East High School. Her clothing classes created designer jeans by adding stitching to regular jeans. Mrs. Donna Lampinen chaired the department.

In the Instructional Materials Center, Mr. Bill Morris and Mrs. Ina Mae Miller were their usual helpful selves' assisting students and teachers as needed and attending to the thousands of volumes entrusted to their care. Miss Sue Hardesty kept the machines and software of the media working to the betterment of students and sometimes found it necessary to repair the center's busy copier.

Nurse Quindanell Brims did her thing dispensing tender loving care to students who came to her with complaints.

Study halls and opportunity hall were guarded by Mrs. Lisa Williams, Mrs. Julia Whitener and Mr. Glen Turner.

Service forces work to keep campus 'home'

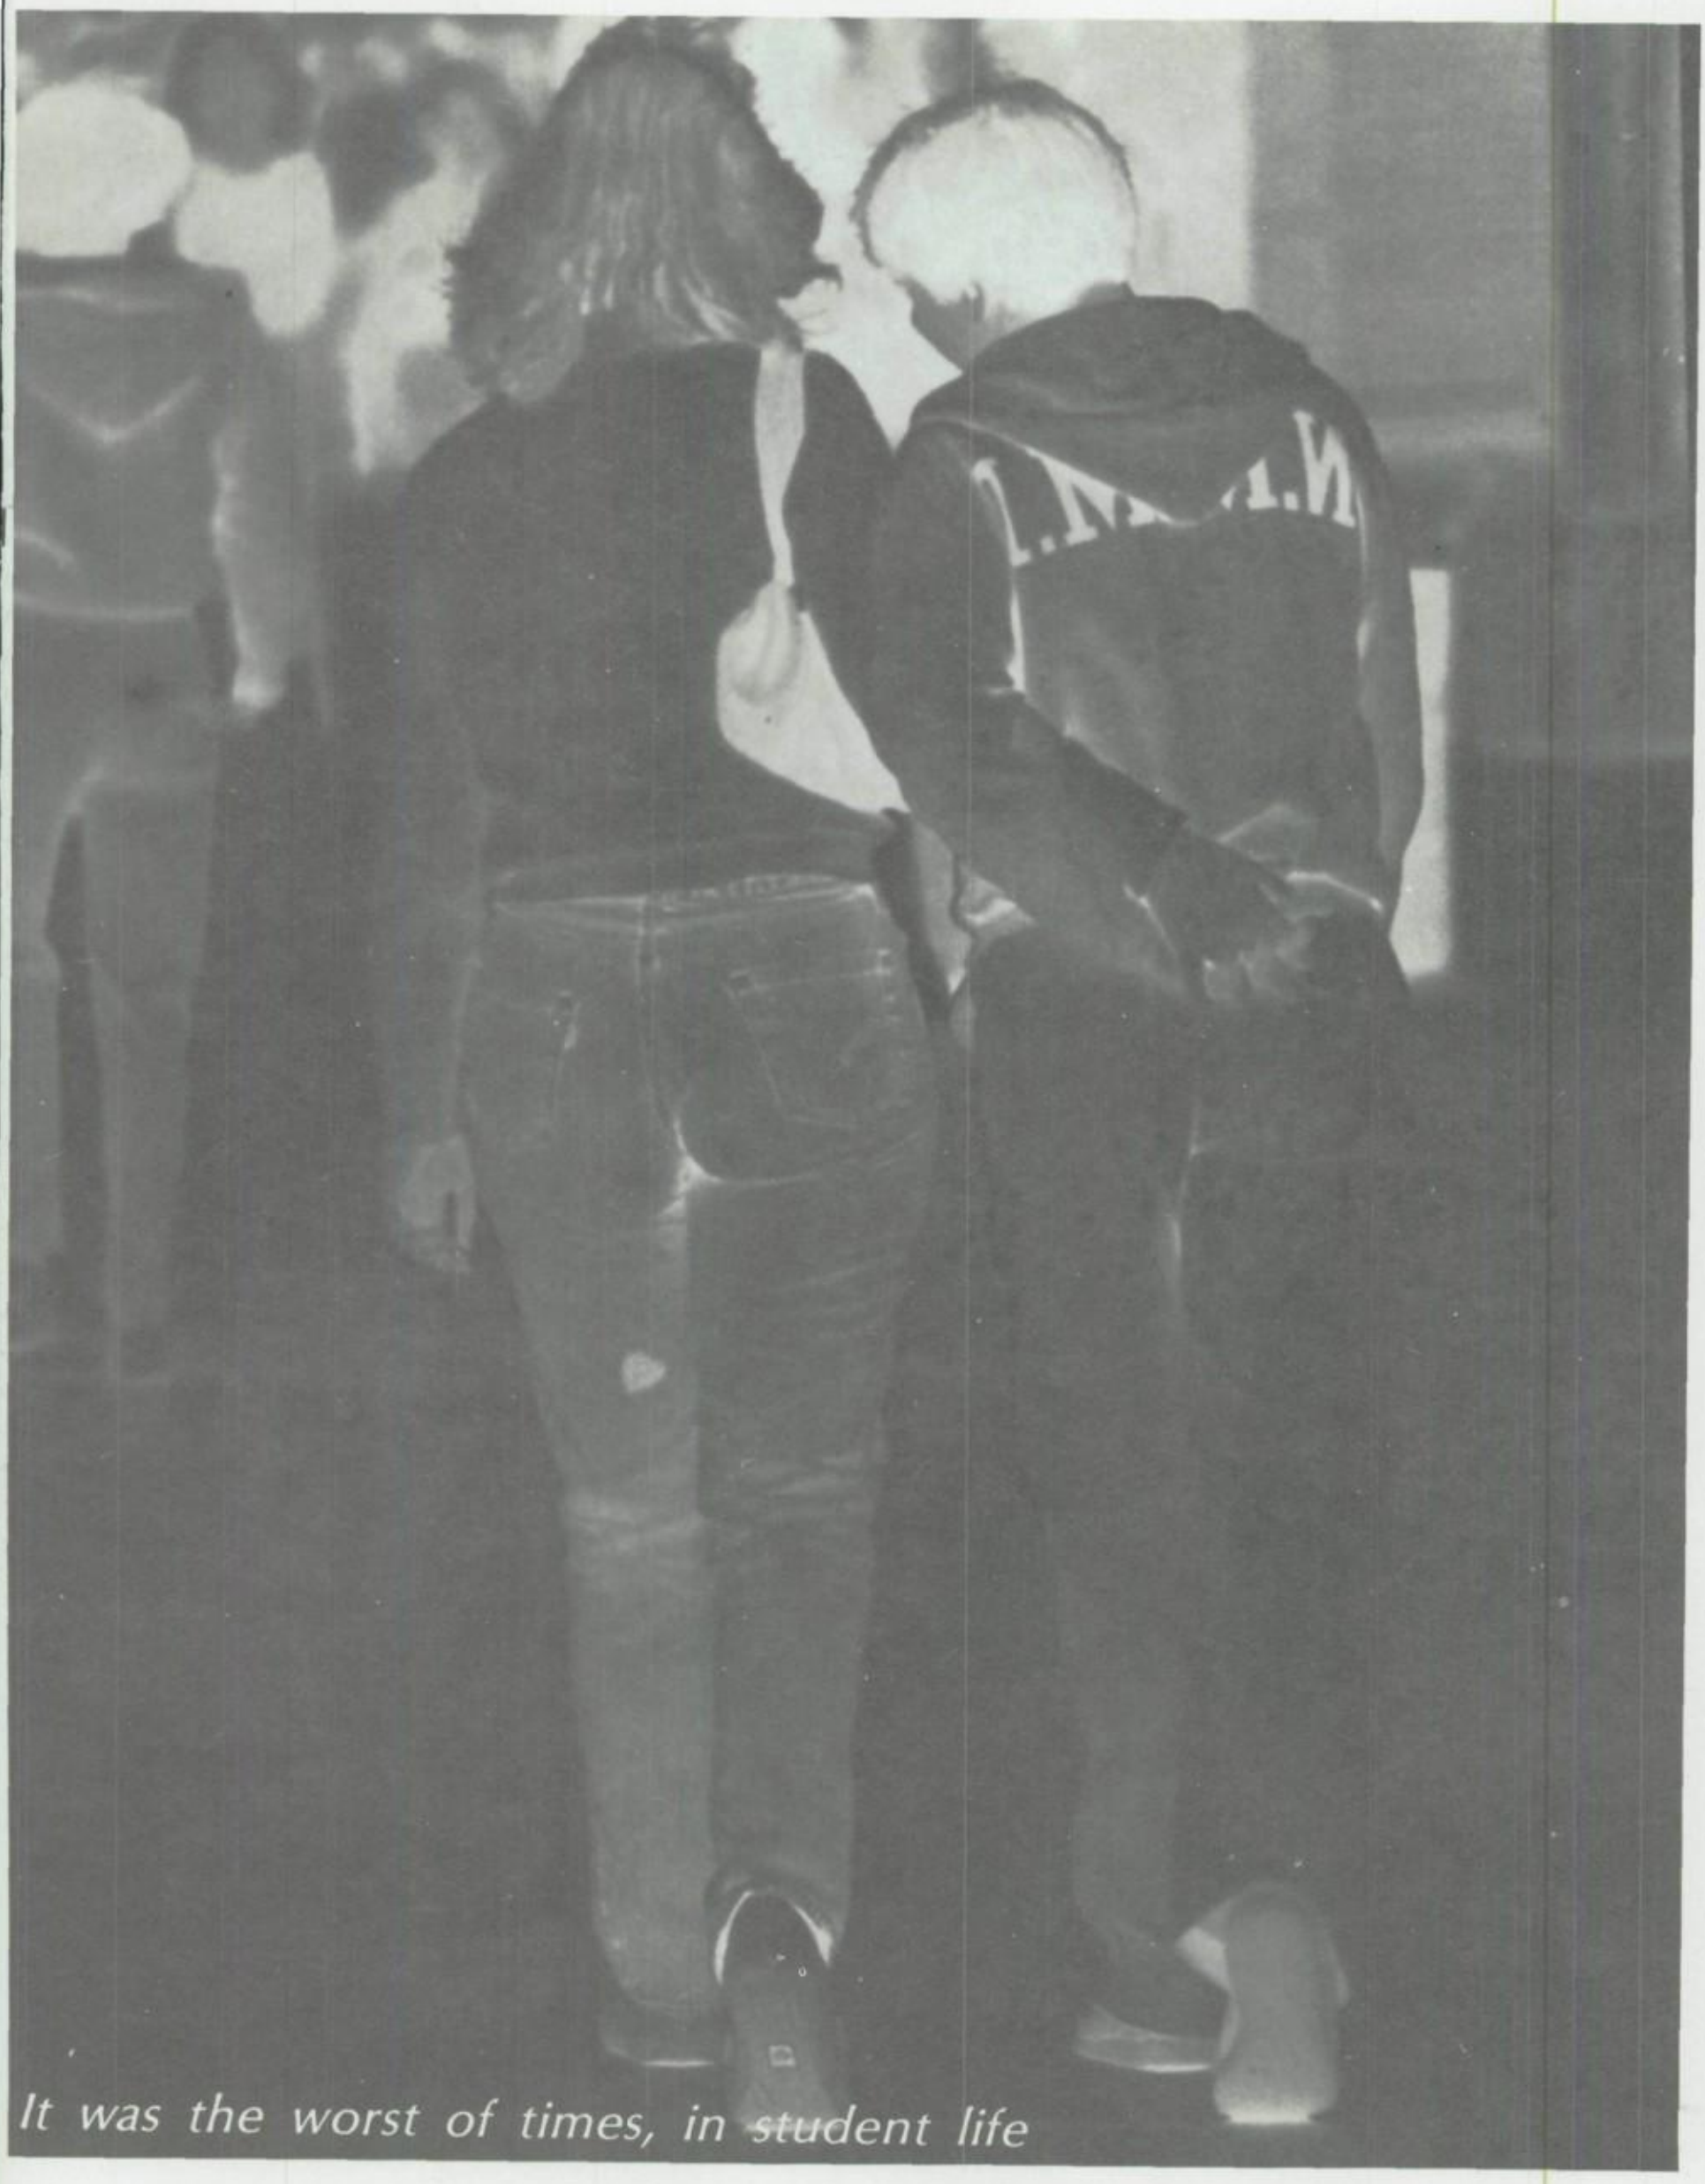
It was the best of times,



It was the worst of times, in student life

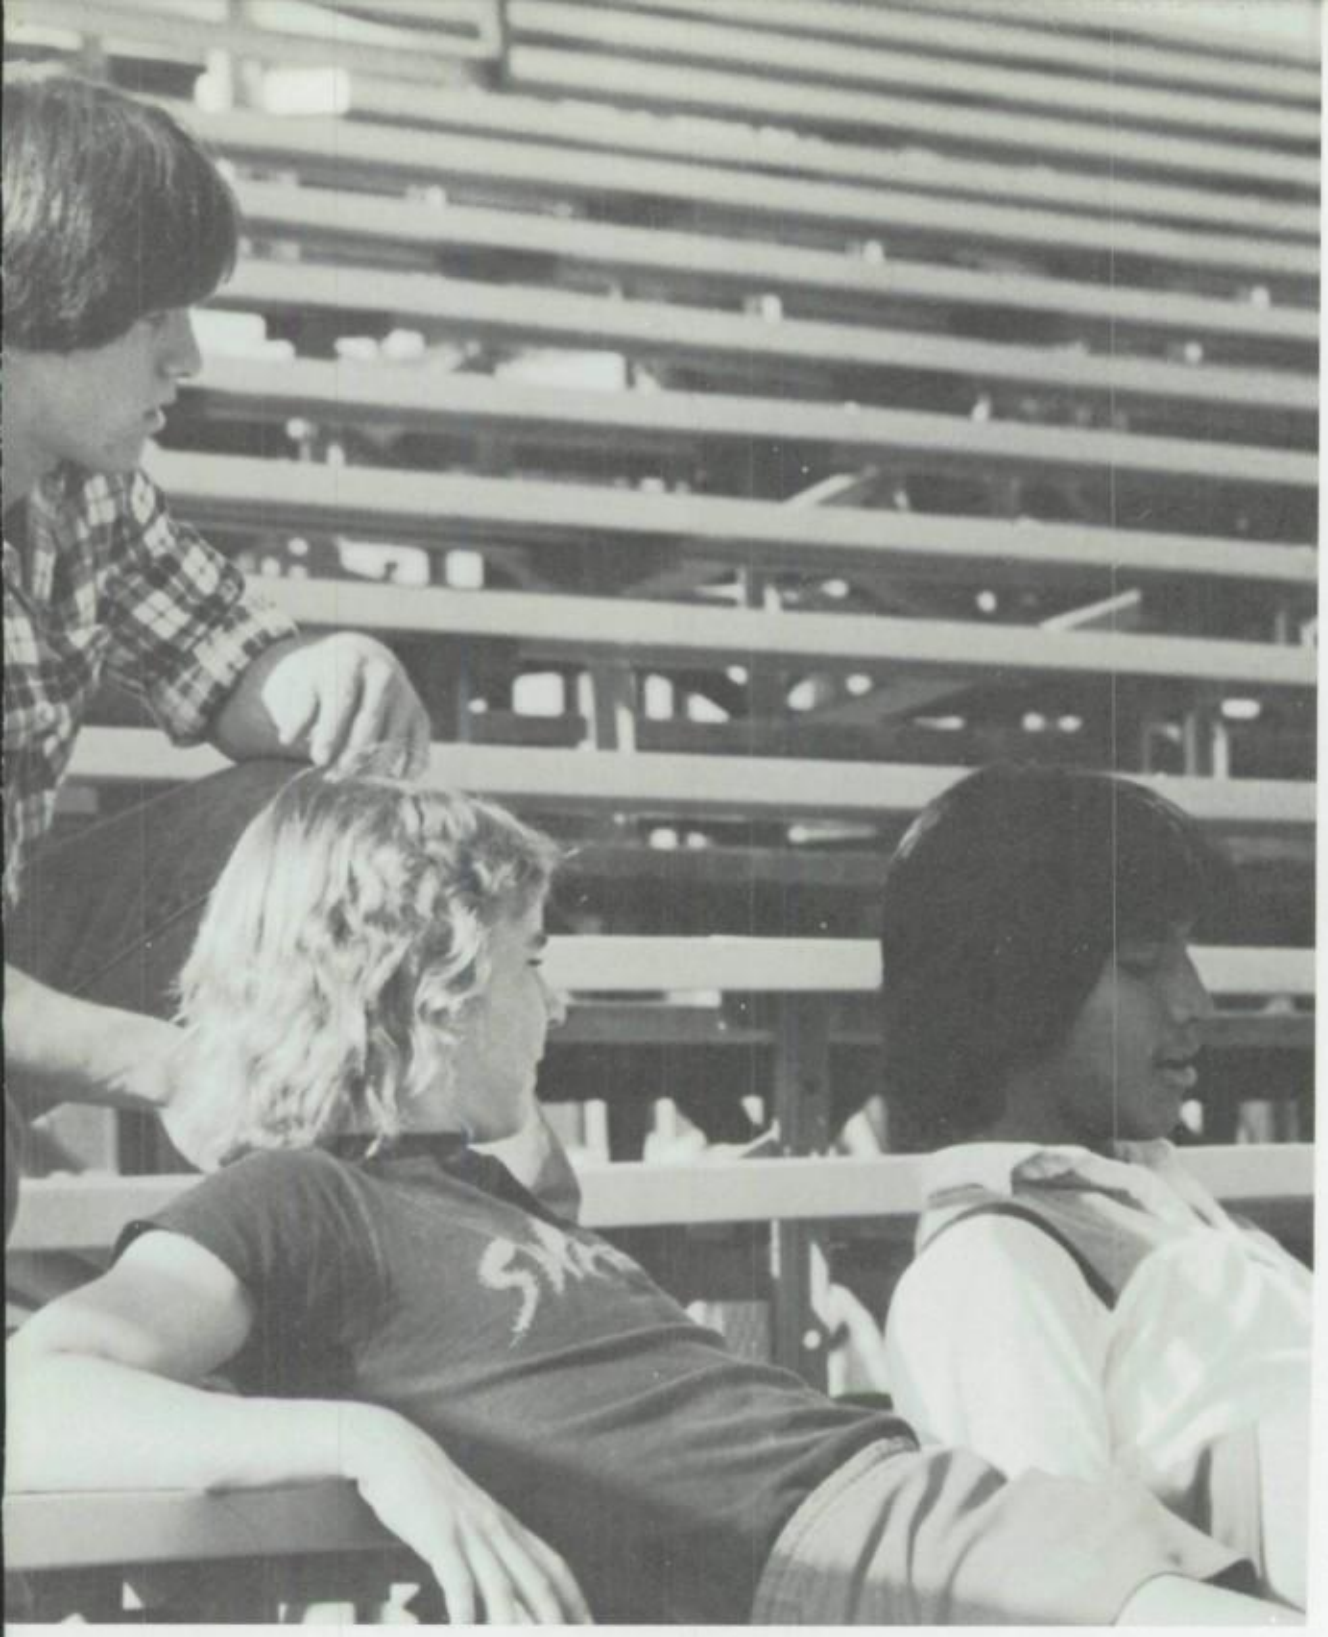
'Hanging out' around campus is way of life

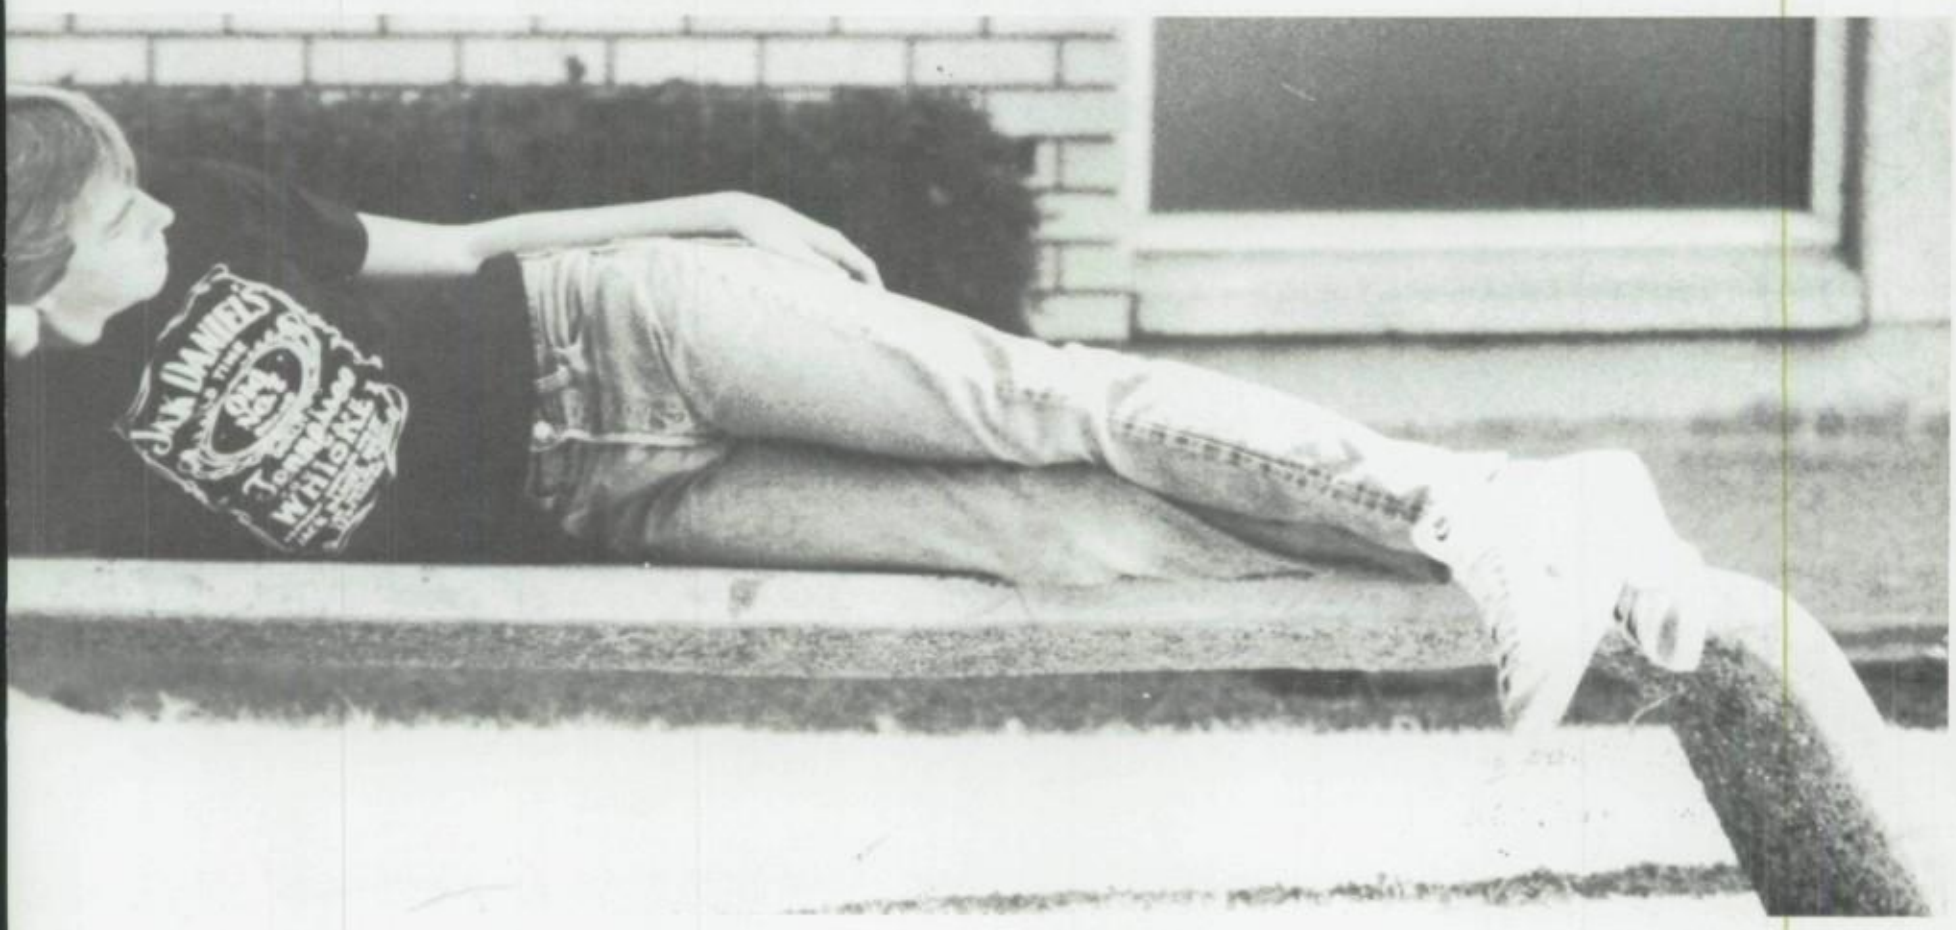
"Hanging out" around school is a highly developed art form. During lunch, before after and during school, "Hang" could be found in various spots around campus.

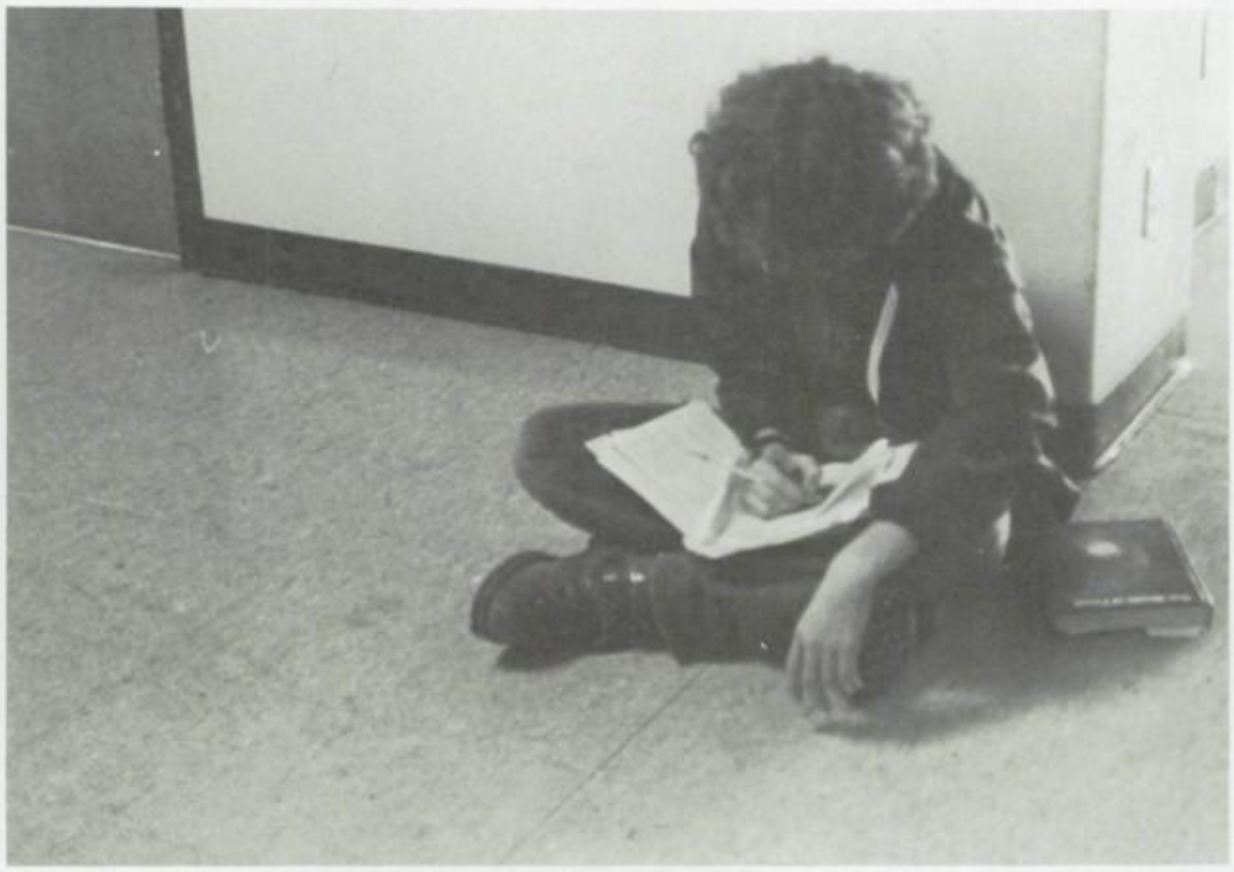
The mall close to the snack bar drew the "Macho Hang" who liked to wrestle and flex his muscles.

Dark hallways were the favorite location of the silent, thinking "Hang." He could often be seen talking with his friends at the top of the grandstand.

For the tired or lazy "Hang" there were always the many benches placed strategically on campus where he can rest and recuperate after a long hour of classes.



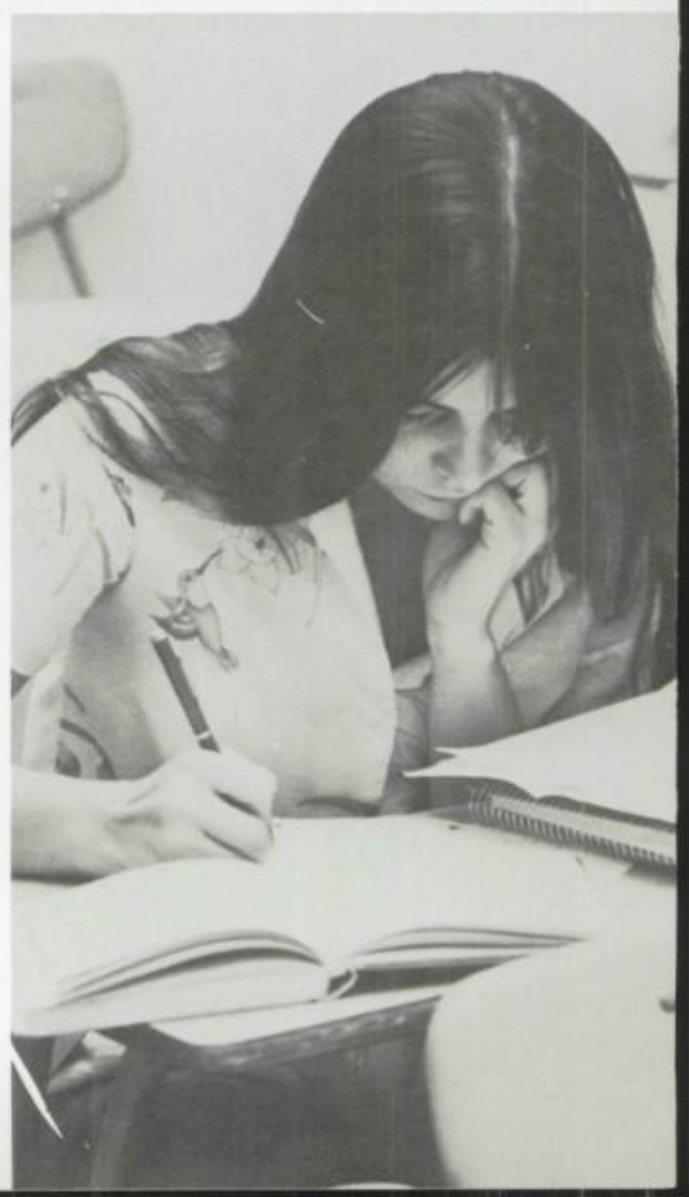




Studious scholars fill campus nook, crannies

Although there were plenty of fun and games, Maryvale was a place for serious study too. Students found many times, places and way to finish homework for their next class or cram for the big Free Enterprise test.

For some people, the best place to study was the classroom or Library. But some thought the 900 building floor or the stadium press box was just as good.



Wilder classic gives actors first challenge

John Jackson and Kiami Rogers starred in "Our Town" the first Thespian production of the year which opened in early October.

The play by Thornton Wilder, which uses a fairly sketchy set, is the story of growing up, marrying and dying in a small town.

To compensate for the lack of scenery, Stage Manager Mike Boldt came on from time to time to tell the audience some of the background. Other principals in the cast were Andrew Fisher who played Doc Gillis and Brian Downey as Editor Webb.

Students split for fast food during lunch

Lunch hours were greeted with mixed feelings among Maryvale students. For those lucky enough to have a car and license (or a generous friend who did) there was the off-campus opportunity. Fare varied from hamburgers at McDonalds to Mexican food at Taco Bell. For those stranded on campus, however the choices were greatly reduced: cafeteria or snack bar. Some people vetoed both ideas though and headed home for some of mom's own confections.

Students given brief respite at assemblies

Whether they were encouraging spirit, celebrating Christmas or exhibiting a repentant daredevil motorcycle whiz, assemblies took up part of the school day from time to time.

Pep assemblies, held on the football field, introduced players and gave the cheerleaders and poms a chance to enliven spirit among students who learned new yells and the words to "Panther Growl."

One assembly promoted "Our Town" for the Thespians as selected scenes were shown. The sports award assembly was delayed when the football Panthers suddenly became involved in the State Playoffs.

The Christmas assembly featured the performing arts department as the modern dance, choir and mime group performed. The mime group's version of "The Night Before Christmas" was particularly memorable.

Motorcycle daredevil Gary Wells did a few "wheelies" and talked about his involvement with drugs in a special afternoon assembly on the field.

Games relieve student lunch time tensions

For many students there was nothing to do but eat lunch.

But for those not afraid of a little embarrassment or strange practices, there were Student Government's lunchtime activities.

Such gems as "Do you like your neighbor," "Pass the marshmellow on a toothpick" or "The Great Spoon Relay" were just a few of the many lunacies one could enjoy on an otherwise boring lunch hour.

'80's Movies provide theme for Homecoming

The Movies of the '80's was the subject of the '83 Homecoming and you could make a movie on the crazy events that happened during the week before Homecoming. Such diversions as the Powder-Puff Game, Almost Anything Goes III, and The MHS Male Poms provided just a sampling of Homecoming week activities, concluding with the football game on Friday. Lonnie Hatfield and Kim Herald won the honors and Maryvale won the game.

Practicing for the Powder-Puff game was a big part of Homecoming week for the underclass team. (top center) This game's halftime show was provided by the Male Poms. (bottom center) Keith Kealer, Brent Finley, Randy Leighty, Tom Price, Jay Sommerville, Chris Fiscus and Joe Cone. Almost Anything Goes was also a force to be reckoned with. Two members of the senior team (left) give their all in the wheelbarrow race. The night of the game, Pete Torsiello (far left) sang the National Anthem and Lonnie Hatfield and Kim Herald were crowned King and Queen.

Marshall rules formal affair with Kindred

December brought many things to Maryvale: Christmas, Christmas vacation, and the Christmas formal.

Icy Wonderland was the theme and an enjoyable and memorable evening was the program. Many students were at the gym on December 18, even though the date had been changed and many students had other obligations on the new night. The high point of the evening was the crowning of the King and Queen. The honors were given to Randy Kindred and Miyoshi Marshall and all in the kingdom of Maryvale were happy . . .

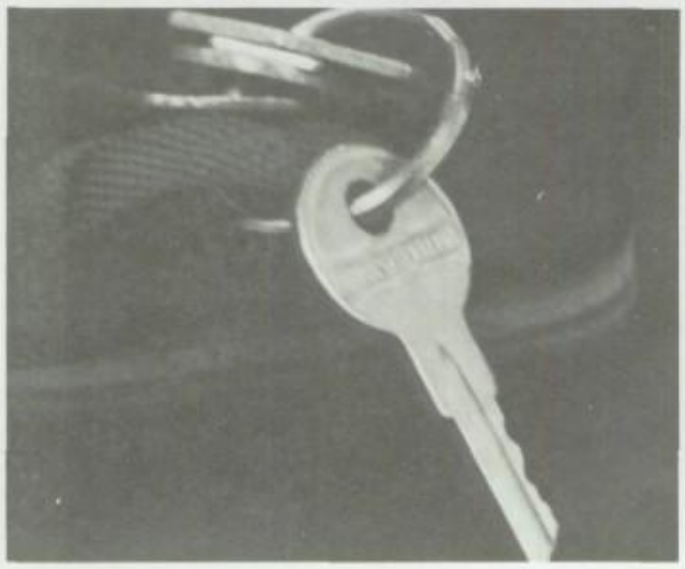
Lee, Hoebee receive honors for valentine's

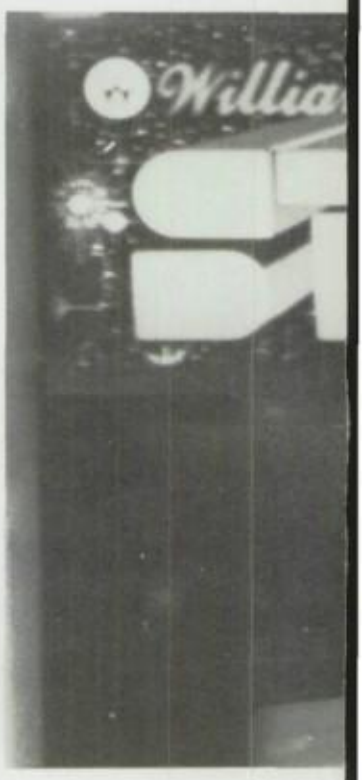
Valentine's is traditionally a time for lovers, but that time was overshadowed this year at the Valentine's dance when one sister, Amy Lee, passed the honor of Panther Sweetheart on to another, Sylvia.

Shavene Butler turned over the Panther Beau reins to Chris Hoebee, no kin.

Besides dancing and honors, the dance came to life with fun and games as the D.J. hosted such pleasures as human musical chairs and pass the balloon.

After being introduced as the Panther Beau and Sweetheart, Chris Hoebee and Sylvia Lee led dancers on to the floor. Others soon joined them (lower left) or played games (top left) or merely watched the action. This year's Sweetheart and Beau, Amy Lee and Shavene Butler (lower center) hosted the affair.





Maryvale took no back seats in fads, movies, music, clothes

JOBS

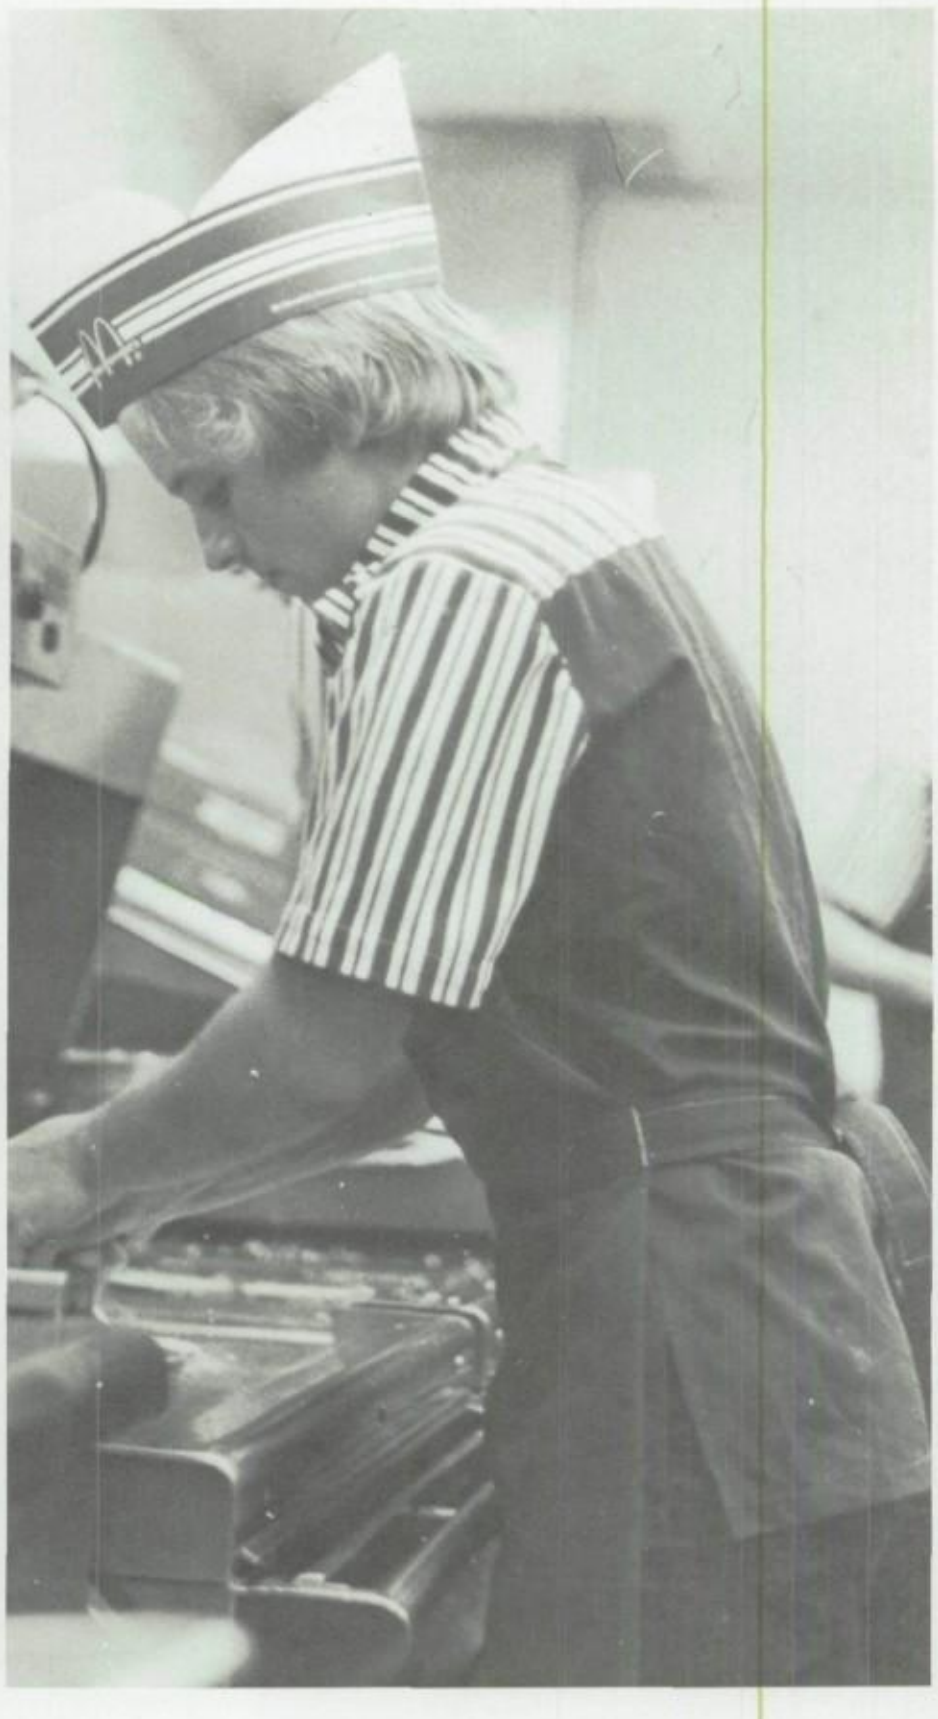
Most students who had ways to get there had jobs. Probably the most popular place was McDonalds. You always knew someone who worked there. Gifts III, Kay-Bee Toys, Smitty's and Wendy's were just a few of the places contributing to Maryvale's economy and students pockets.

CLOTHES

The "Preppie" look was probably the most popular one at Maryvale. Izod, Brittania and Le Tigre shirts and topsiders could be seen just about everywhere. However there were still plenty of concert jersey and jeans people around.

FADS

"O mi God!" "Valley Girl," Frank Zappa's parody of girls in the San Fernando Valley, set off the biggest trend in talk since Bob and Doug McKenzie, Garfield and E.T. were popular stuffed animals and "Vans" shoes were as much a fad as they were shoes.



COSTS

Everything went up again in 1983, but here's a list to help you remember when . . .

A large coke was $.60
A gallon of gas was $1.09
A movie ticket was $4.50
A gallon of milk was $1.89
A video game play was $.25
A Big Mac was $1.35
A New Trans-Am was $8,000

MUSIC

Toto IV, Chicago 16, Stray Cats, Good Trouble and Frontiers to Conquer were just a few of the years top albums by Toto, Chicago, Stray Cats, REO Speedwagon and Journey. Concerts in the Valley included Rush, Tom Petty and the Heartbreakers, REO Speedwagon, Queen, Billy Squire, and a Farewell tribute to The Who.

MOVIES

"Awesome. Totally Awesome" was how some people described the smash hit "Fast Times at Ridgemont High." Other box-office winners included "Poltergeist", "Tootsie", "The Toy", "Creepshow", "48 Hours", "Rocky III", "An Officer and a Gentleman", and quite possibly the biggest movie of all time, "E.T.", The Extraterrestrial.

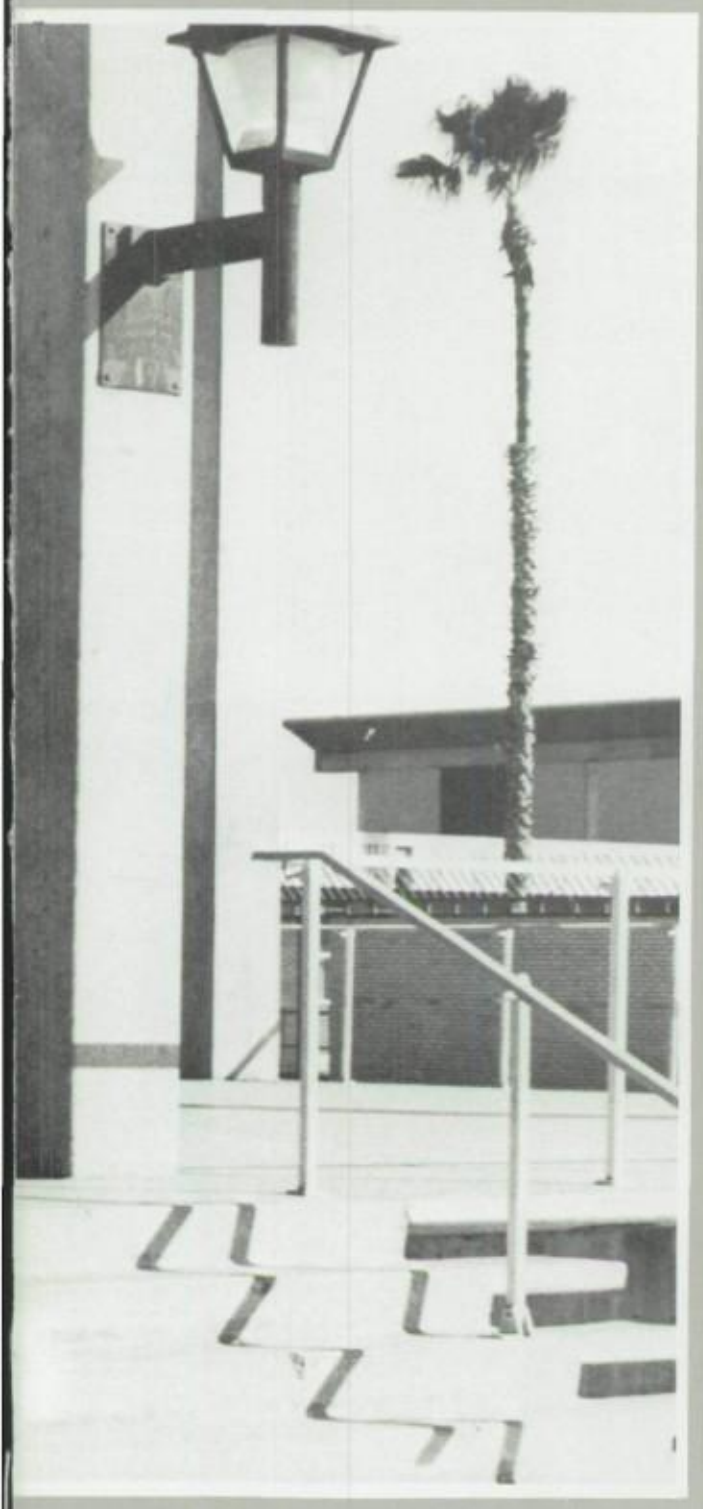
Just as surely as everyone wanted school to be over in September, they never wanted it to end in May. Everyone looked forward to summer, but it would be a summer without some of the people they'd seen every day for nine months.

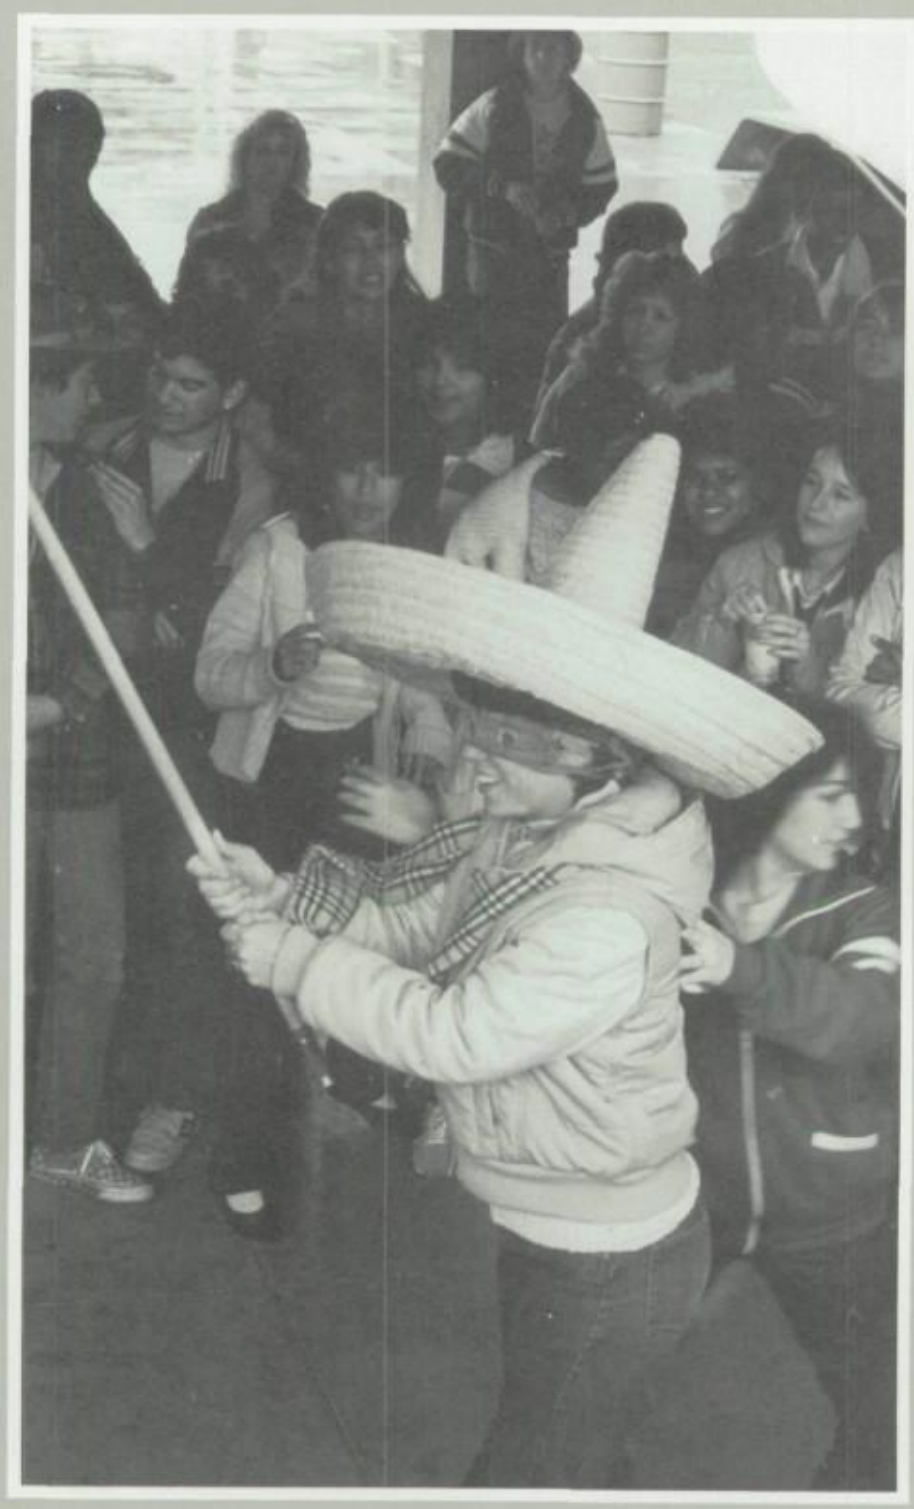
School's end had its good points, and its bad.

It was the best of times, it was the worst of times, in sports. The varsity football team went to the semi-finals and lost, but they brought home a division title. The volleyball team travelled to Tuscon for post-season play. And even though they didn't come back state champs, they did return to Maryvale third in the state. The boys cross country team only won fifth in division, but the girls took first. So even though sports had its bad times, the good times were better. So in sports, it really was the best of times.

It was the best of times, it was the worst of times, in honors. Randy Kindred and Myoshi Marshall weren't elected for Homecoming Royalty, but were later chosen Christmas formal King and Queen. Carolyn Coulter wasn't at the top of her class, but she was picked for Outstanding Senior Girl. So even though honors had its bad times, the good times were better. So in honors, it really was the best of times.

It was the best of times, it was the worst of times, in classes. People were late to their class, but the teacher didn't always notice. Students didn't do their homework, but they still got good enough grades.



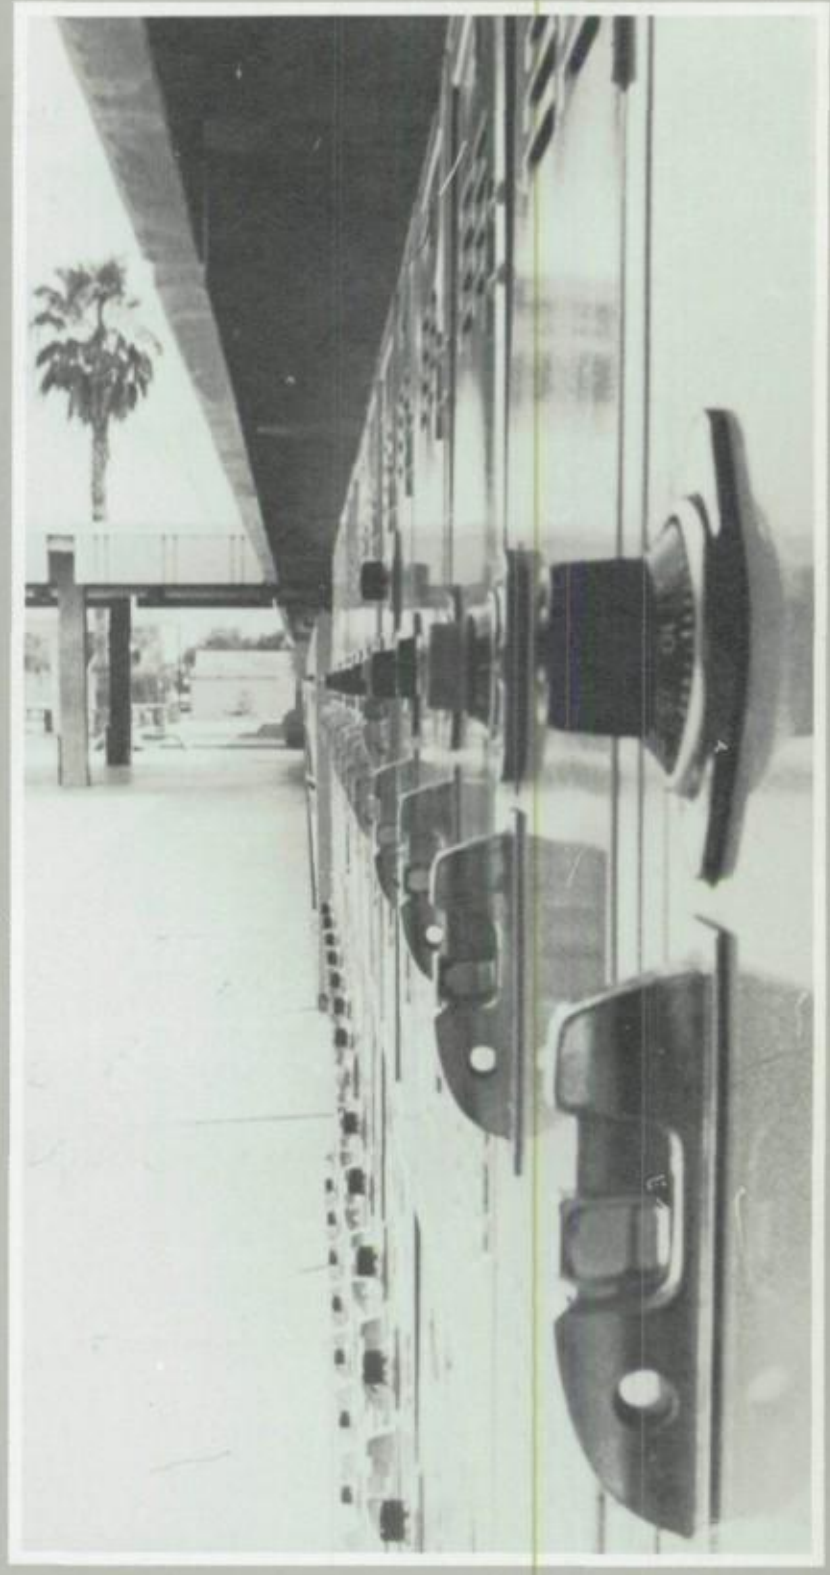


Freshmen were just as clumsy as ever, but they were going on to be upperclassmen. So even though classes had its bad times, the good times were better. So in classes, it really was the best of times.

It was the best of times, it was the worst of times, in organizations. The band only got a 2 at Band Day, But ROTC was first in the state at AFI. A new Cheer Line would have to be broken in next year, but there was always the reassuring Pom line. Most of the Model U.N. members had the flu during the convention in Tuscon, but members of the Rodeo Club went to a Wickenburg parade. So even though organizations had its bad times, the good times were better. So in organizations, it really was the best of times.

It was the best of times, it was the worst of times, in curriculum. Mr. George Miller retired after three years as principal, but was succeeded by Mr. Wellesley Goodwin. Mrs. Gwen Earl went on a leave of absence for the first semester, but Mr. Martin Ulloa returned to work after a severe heart attack last year. So even though curriculum had its bad times, the good times were better. So in curriculum, it really was the best of times.

It was the best of times, it was the worst of times, in student life. Going out after football games ended in December, but going out after basketball games started in December. Village Inn closed as a hang-out for lunch, but W.C. Frank's opened. So even though Student Life had its bad times, the good times were better. So in student life, it really was the best of times.



This is it. This copy will put the finishing touches on the 1983 Panthorian, and one of the best years of my life. For posterity's sake, I would like to put down on paper some fitting words for some special people.

Patti: I give you all of this, and sincerely hope it gives you EVERYTHING it gave me.

Brent: I wish to thank you for giving me self confidence by making me prove I could do just about anything you didn't.

Keith: Your gift was quite possibly the most useful to me. It was the ever present knowledge that there was someone on the planet in worse shape than myself.

Mr. Stinson: Your guidance will not cease to guide when these pages reach the students. It will follow me on through life and keep reminding me that I never want to be a yearbook advisor.

These people are just a few of those that for better or for worse, made this year what it was. Even though they caused some headaches (migrain), I really don't remember the pain too well now, nor probably several years from now. What I do remember, however is the good times. In the words of a popular Styx song, which a now departed fellow ardvark used to inspire our theme, it is mostly the good, and not the bad, that one remembers.

Our memories of yesterday will last a lifetime,
We'll take the best,
Forget the rest,
And someday we'll find ...

And so another chapter in the history of Maryvale High School closes. It brings me a great sense of pride and accomplishment with the completion of its history book. So to the students of Maryvale, may your highschool years be, as they have for me,

"... The Best of Times"

THE PERIOD

IT was the best of times, it was the worst of times, it was the age of wisdom, it was the age of foolishness, it was the epoch of belief, it was the epoch of incredulity, it was the season of Light, it was the season of Darkness, it was the spring of hope, it was the winter of despair, we had everything before us, we had nothing before us, we were all going direct to Heaven, we were all going direct the other way—in short, the period was so far like the present period, that some of its noisiest authorities insisted on its being received, for good or for evil, in the superlative degree of comparison only.
